

ABSTRACT

In a pattern writing method for writing a pattern on a substrate by the use of projection patterns output from a mirror device including two-dimensionally
5 arranged micromirrors, exposure is implemented by ON/OFF controlling each micromirror and partly overlapping the projection patterns from the mirror device at least in a one-dimensional direction, thereby accurately controlling the exposure of intermediate amounts of light.